1. General Provisions and Subject of the Agreement

1.1. This Service Agreement has been made between SMARTEX INTERNATIONAL LTD., registered at Suite 305, Griffith Corporate Centre P.O. box 1510, Beachmont, Kingstown, St. Vincent and the Grenadines, registration number 1631 CTD 2017 (hereinafter – Company), and the individual who filled in the registration form on the Company's website or in the trading platform and accepted the terms of this Service Agreement and of the appendices hereto at the moment of registration (hereinafter – Client). The Payment Agent(s) that the Company hires to carry out non-trading transactions under this Agreement is also a Party (Parties) to this Agreement. The Company, Payment Agent(s) and Client are jointly referred to as "Parties."

1.2. The following documents are an integral part of this Service Agreement (annexes to this Service Agreement):

- a. Regulation on trading transactions;
- b. Regulation on non-trading transactions and the KYC/AML policy;
- c. Risk disclosure;
- d. Other documents placed in the 'Legal Information' section on the Company's website, including but not limited to the subdomains of the Company's website that are accessible by the Client and / or in the trading terminal.

The Company may unilaterally alter the list, name, and content of annexes to this Agreement. The Company may add new annexes to the Agreement or delete existing ones without making any amendments to this clause.

The text of the Service Agreement and of the annexes to it is referred to as the Agreement.

1.3. The Agreement is an offer posted on the Company's website that must be treated as an offer to enter into this Agreement on the terms set forth in it. The posted offer is not public. The Company at its sole discretion may refuse to enter into an Agreement with anyone without explaining the reasons for refusal or, if registration took place, to terminate contractual relations and to block access to the trading terminal. The Client's registration on the Company's Website or on the trading terminal is considered to be unconditional acceptance of the terms hereof. As soon as the Company receives a payment to replenish the Client's trading account, each Client transaction using the trading terminal or Dashboard becomes the subject of this Agreement.

1.4. The Client must carefully review the terms of the Agreement. By accepting the terms of this Agreement, the Client agrees to the terms of all annexes to it listed above, including the terms on subdomains of the Company's website that are accessible by the Client and confirms that he/she is a competent adult and is not a resident of a country where trading in options may be deemed illegal.

The Client also represents and warrants to the Company that:

1.4.1. All information provided during Client registration and during the performance of Agreement, is true, accurate, reliable and complete in all respects, and the Client completed the registration form him/herself;

1.4.2. The Client has the proper rights to enter into this Agreement, to make inquiries give and orders, and to fulfill his obligations in accordance with the terms of the Agreement;

1.4.3. The Client will carry out trading and non-trading transactions personally, on his own behalf and at his own expense and will not use funds borrowed from other Company Clients or from third parties to carry out transactions. The Client will be guided by the principles of integrity, honesty, and rationality; the Client will not take actions coordinated with other Company Clients aimed at damaging the Company; the Client will not use technical features of the quote stream update on the trading terminal and will not use software errors, defects, and vulnerabilities he discovers in the trading terminal to extract income and will not distribute the information about vulnerabilities to the third parties. The Client will not use unfair and dishonest methods or ways of making trades (transactions) with the Company; the Client will not use insider or confidential information or any other information, as a result of the use of which the Client might benefit when trading with the Company and/or that might damage the Company;

1.4.4. The client will adhere to legal norms, in particular international norms aimed at controlling illegal trade, financial fraud, and money laundering;

1.4.5. The Client will not use the trading terminal or website to collude in illegal financial activities or any other illegal transaction;

1.4.6. the money listed by the Client on the Company's account has legal origin.

The Client legally possesses the money and has the right to use it. The Client's account will not be replenished from third party bank accounts or electronic wallets.

The Client will not replenish third party client accounts or withdraw money from the Client's account to third party bank accounts or electronic wallets.

1.4.7. no actions of the Client pursuant to the Agreement will violate any law, regulation, right, bylaws, or rules and regulations applicable to the Client or in the jurisdiction where he/she resides or the provisions of any other agreement binding on the Client or involving any assets of the Client

1.4.8. To carry out transactions, the Client will use the devices belonging to him and connect to the trading platform using the channels and means of communication (including telephone numbers, IP addresses, etc.) that belong to the Client; the Client will not use devices of third parties and will not give the devices belonging to him to the third parties or other Company clients; he will not use anonymizers or other third-part devices or tools or devices and tools that make it possible to conceal the Client's real IP address or his true location and point of connection to the trading platform

1.4.9. The Client is not a federal or municipal employee, an employee of a federal or municipal institution, an employee of a federal or municipal organization, an organization in whose capital the state has a prevailing interest; the Client is not a politically significant person, a family member or a relative of a politically significant person; the Client is not a person closely connected with a politically significant person; the Client is not a person connected with the United States or with another country in which the Company does not operate. The terms used in this paragraph are interpreted and applied by the Company at its own discretion in accordance with the norms of international legislation and/or legislation of a particular state, generally accepted terms and definitions, customary business practices.

1.5. The subject of the Agreement is the definition of the general conditions under which the Parties carry out transactions (trades), the content and procedure for which are set forth in this Agreement. The Company sets and may alter at its sole discretion an essential condition for a transaction (trade), may limit the number of trades executed simultaneously, and limit the number of trades that a Client may make within the time period set by the Company.

1.6. The Company may hire third parties to perform this Agreement. The company is not responsible for services provided by such third parties.

2. Terms and Definitions

2.1. Asset – the underlying financial instrument of a option. An asset may be company stock, a stock index, currency pair (the rate of a exchange of one currency into another currency), goods quoted on a commodity exchange, commodity options, etc.

2.2. Client's Account Balance – the amount of money in the Client's account.

2.3. Option - a derivative financial instrument (trade), consisting of two transactions: Making a trade and Closing a trade, as a result of the fulfillment of which the Client either receives Income or loses the Trade amount. The Company does not, however, provide a Client with the ability to assume obligations greater than the Trade amount (the Company does not provide leverage to the Client). The Company and the Client make a trade with an Up/Down option - an option, the target of which equals the asset price or another price determined by the Client at the Company's suggestion when the trade is made, payment on which is made if an upward price change was selected and the asset price was greater than the target when the option expired or if a downward price change was selected and the asset price was less than the target when the option expired. If the asset price is the same as the target level when the option expires, the trade Amount is returned to the Client.

2.4. Bonus – virtual cash credited by the Company to the Client's Account when the Client meets the conditions established by the Company. When the Client executes trading transactions, funds deposited by the Client must be used first and, only after those funds are completely exhausted, does the Client have the right to use the Bonus for further trading transactions. In general, the Client cannot withdraw the Bonus amount to the Client's External Account. If the Client withdraws funds that were previously credited to his External account, the Company has the right to debit the entire amount of previously accrued Bonuses from the Client's Account. The Company has the right to set a minimum trading amount and other terms under which the Bonus is not debited from the Client's Account and may be withdrawn to the Client's External account. The Company may publish credit and debit rules, rules for using and converting Bonuses to real funds, and rules for other transactions with Bonuses and Client funds that the Client accrued along with Bonuses on its website. The Company may, in addition to Bonuses, provide Clients with risk-free trades and use other ways to reward and retain the Client. A risk-free trade is defined as a trade, at the close of which the Client either receives Income (if the Client correctly predicted the direction in the change in price for the asset) or receives a refund of the trade amount (if the Client incorrectly predicted the direction of the change in price of the asset). When the Client uses a risk-free trade that ended with the return of the Trade amount to the Client because the target and market price coincided when an option expires, that risk-free trade is deemed to be used by the Client.

2.5. Company Website – an internet site at the address (domain name) olymptrade.com, and other internet sites which the Company references in the Agreement or on the Company Website.

2.6. Client External Account – the Client's current account at a lending institution, an account (wallet) on an electronic payment system.

2.7. Option Expiration Time – the time when the condition for payout of income on the option is checked..

2.8. Trading Hours – the time when trading in an asset may be done.

2.9. Funds Withdrawal – transfer of money from the Client's Account to the Client's External Account.

2.10. Payout – fixed remuneration credited to the Client's Account if the terms of the option condition are fulfilled. The Income amount is determined at the time that the trade is executed. Income is credited to the Client's account from the Company's guaranteed (compensatory, special) fund (reserve fund), which is formed in the manner determined by the Company at its own expense.

- 2.11. Execution of a trade – a trading transaction in which the essential conditions of a option trade are agreed by the Client and the Company. After it is made, the option trade is open.
- 2.12. Closure of a trade – a trading transaction in which an open option trade is liquidated. It is performed if the trade conditions are fulfilled when the option expires or on the Client's initiative. Early trade closure - the closure of a trade at the Client's initiative before it is closed at the option expiration time. A trade is closed at the client's initiative only if it is technically possible for the Company to do so and this action is a right, but not a duty of the Company.
- 2.13. Exceptional Situations - abnormal market conditions described in the Regulation on Trading Transactions.
- 2.14. Payout ratio – the percentage that determines the Income amount set by the Company depending on the option asset and other conditions of the option.
- 2.15. Asset Quote – the price for one unit of the Asset.
- 2.16. Log entry - an entry in the database made by the Company server that, with accuracy to the millisecond or, in the case of absence of technical capability, with accuracy to the second, documents all Client inquiries and instruction and the result of their processing. Each Client contact with the trading terminal and dashboard is documented in a log entry. These server data are the primary source of information and are used by the parties as evidence if disputes related to the performance of the Agreement arise. Information from a Company service Log entry has unconditional priority over all other arguments during consideration of a dispute, including over information from the Client's trading terminal Log file. The Company reserves the right not to keep Log entries.
- 2.17. Price Direction – an essential condition of a option trade that determine the trade payout. A price may change direction Up or Down.
- 2.18. Non-trading Transaction – any Client transaction to deposit funds on the Client's Account or withdraw funds from the Client's Account.
- 2.19. Transactions – The Client's trading and non-trading transactions.
- 2.20. Open Trade – a option trade after the execution of the trade and before trade closure, for which it is not determined yet whether a payout will be made.
- 2.21. Payment Agent – a third party used by the Company to transfer money to and/or from the Client's Account. The Company's Payment Agent is WALLFORT LIMITED, the address is: KPMG Center, 1-st floor, 1 Agias Fylaxeos Street, 3025 Limassol, Cyprus under registration number HE 364695. The Company is responsible for the actions of the Payment Agent as though they were its own actions. Claims/complaints/statements may be submitted to the Payment Agent at the addresses specified in this clause in accordance with the procedure prescribed by Section 5 of this Agreement.
- 2.22. Price Feed – a succession of prices displayed on the Trading Terminal.
- 2.23. Black Territory – the state of an open option trade if income on the trade can be paid out on the basis of the current trade asset price.
- 2.24. Payment service provider - a company that provides funds transfer services.
- 2.25. Recurring payment – a periodically repeating transaction to replenish the Balance of the Client's account without requiring the latter to reenter his or her credit card information. After the Client replenishes the Balance of his or her account the first time, the Client is presented with the option of avoiding having to reenter his or her credit card information again in the future. The Client needs only to confirm each operation to replenish the Balance of his or her account.

2.26. Trade – an agreement between the Client and the Company under which the Client pays the Trade Amount and the Company agrees to pay a fixed Income if the option conditions selected by the Client are fulfilled.

2.27. Company Server – the Company's software used to process and store information about client requests for trading and non-trading transactions, to provide to the Client real-time information about trading on financial markets, to account for trading and non-trading transactions, to monitor the fulfillment of trade conditions and limit trading transactions, and to determine the financial result of trades.

2.28. Withdrawal Method – one of the Funds Withdrawal methods offered to the Client that is posted on the trading terminal and in the Dashboard.

2.29. The trade amount is the amount paid by the Client to the Company when he closes a trade. The Client's profit on an option trade if the trade is executed is determined by the procedure set forth in Section 2.10. of this Agreement.

2.30. Company's Account – the Company's settlement account at a financial institution, an account (wallet) in an electronic payment system, and other accounts, including accounts of Payment Agents.

2.31. Essential Conditions of a trading transaction (essential conditions of a trade) – the conditions that govern the payout of income from a trade to the Client by the Company.

2.32. Client Account (Trading Account) - a special account in the Company's accounting system in which funds transferred by the Client to make option trades are posted; from which the trade amount is debited when the trade is fulfilled ; and to which income is credited when a trade is closed. The Client has the right to have only one client account. If this rule is violated, the Company has the right to deny further services to the Client, terminate this agreement, and block the further ability to carrying out transactions without explanation and without payment of funds from the Client's account.

2.33. Trading transactions - procedures to make and close trades with options between the Company and a Client. Trading transactions are carried out where the Company is registered. No physical delivery of assets takes place during trading transactions. Trade amounts for trading transactions are debited from the Client's account balance after a trade is closed. The Income on trading transactions are credited to the Client's account immediately after a trade closes.

2.34. The Trading Terminal is software through which the Client can obtain real-time information about trading on financial markets to carry out trading and non-trading transactions and receive messages from the Company. Entry to the Trading Terminal is protected by a password that the Client sets at registration on the Company's site. All instructions carried out through the Trading Terminal are deemed carried out personally by the Client. Clients from countries whose laws prohibit trading in options or other over-the-counter derivatives and the employees, affiliates, agents and other representatives of the Company and their relatives are prohibited from using the Trading Terminal. The part of the Trading Terminal with which a Client can carry out nontrading transactions in this Agreement may be called the dashboard.

2.35. Red Territory - the state of an open option trade if, at the current asset price, income cannot be paid out on that trade.

2.36. 1-Click service - makes it possible to replenish a Client's account balance from the Client's bank (payment) cards without entering the bank (payment) card data of the bank card holder again.

2.37. Target level - the level of asset prices with respect to which the trade result is calculated.

2.38. Cookie file - a small data set including an anonymous unique identifier which is sent to the web browser of the Client's computer or mobile telephone (hereinafter "device") from the Company server (website) and is stored on the hard disk of the Client's computer. The Client may configure a web browser to block cookie access to the computer. When a Client visits the Company Website, the viewed pages and cookie files are downloaded onto the hard drive of the Client's device. Cookie files stored on the hard drive may be used for anonymous identification if the Client revisits the Company's website and to determine the website pages that are the most popular among our Clients. However, for confidentiality and security, the Company does not store Client personal data (including name, personal information, email address, etc.). Cookie files stored on the hard drive of the Client's device enable the company to create the most user-friendly and efficient website for Company Clients, providing us an opportunity to identify our Clients' preferences.

2.39. Trading signals are information about the state of the market gathered by the Company based on analytical conclusions that the Company is entitled to provide at its discretion to some or all Clients with respect to certain market indicators.

Trading signals are not an offer and are not the Company's explicit recommendation to Clients to engage in trading transactions or to make trades. The Company is not liable for the accuracy of Trading Signals or for Client trading transactions and trades based on Trading Signals. The Client may, at his discretion, consider or ignore Trading Signals when engaging in trading transactions and trades.

2.40. Quote - the current Asset price displayed on the Trading Terminal

3. Communications and Provision of Information

3.1. To communicate with the Client, the Company may use:

- e-mail;
- fax;

etc.) (push-notices, reminders, service messages etc. n.);

— announcements on the Company website.

3.2. To promptly communicate with the Client to resolve problems related to Client transactions, the Company will use the Client's contact information entered when the Client registered or modified the account pursuant to clause 4.4 of the Agreement. The Client agrees to accept message from the Company at any time.

3.3. Any correspondence (documents, notices, confirmations, announcements, reports etc.) are deemed received by the Client:

1) one (1) hour after they are sent to the email address (e-mail);

2) immediately after they are faxed;

3) immediately after the telephone call ends;

4) immediately after an SMS message is sent;

5) seven(7) calendar days after they are mailed;

6) immediately after an announcement is posted on the Company website.

3.4. The Client may also contact the Company by e-mail a help@olymptrade.com, a and other email addresses and the telephone numbers listed in this Agreement and on the Company website.

3.5. The Client understands and agrees that, if the Client's behavior during conversations with a Company employee is inappropriate, the Company reserves the right to unilaterally terminate this Agreement.

3.6. The Company may use contact information provided by the Client to send informational, marketing, and advertising materials, and service messages and to resolve other tasks. The Company will determine the frequency with which it sends messages to the Client at its sole discretion. If the Client wishes not to receive from informational (and other) messages from the Company, he/she must unsubscribe by clicking on the Unsubscribe link (if the message format provides this ability) or by contacting the client support department.

4. How to use company services.

4.1. During registration the Client undertakes to provide correct and reliable identification information in accordance with requirements of the Client registration form.

4.2. After successful registration, the Client will be granted access to the trading terminal, the ability to transfer funds to the Client's Account (placing a deposit in the Client's Account to be able to make option trades) and to perform other operations.

4.3. The Client must promptly inform the Company about changes in identification and contact information (within 7 (seven) days after that change) by making the appropriate changes on the Trading Terminal or in any other way offered by the Company. To identify the Client and to inspect the origin of the Client's funds at any time after registration, the Company has the right to ask the Client for any identification document (these documents include identity documents; documents confirming the residential address, documents indicating the Client's financial standing, and other documents at the Company's discretion). The Company reserves the right to suspend non-trading and/or trading transactions on the Client's account if it finds that the Client's identification information is incorrect or inaccurate; if the Client has not provided the requested documents, the Company has the right to block the Client's access to the trading terminal until the client's identification procedure is completed. The Company also has the right to demand that the Client undergo the identification procedure by a personal visit to a Company-authorized agent and provide documents, the list of which is determined by the Company at its discretion.

4.4. Login to the trading terminal is password protected.

4.4.1. The Client confirms and agrees that access to the trading terminal will be protected with a password set by the Client himself/herself during registration. The Client may not transfer the trading terminal password to third parties.

4.4.2. The Client assumes full responsibility for password protection and prevention of unauthorized third party access to it.

4.4.3. All orders through the trading terminal with the Client's password will be deemed to have been made by the Client unless the Company establishes otherwise.

4.4.4. Any person who obtains access to the trading terminal by entering the Client's password will be identified as the Client unless otherwise specified by the Company.

4.4.5. The Company assumes no liability for any losses the Client may suffer in case of theft, loss or disclosure of the password to third parties or in case of unauthorized use of registration data by third parties.

4.5. The Client may change the password to the trading terminal himself/herself or use the procedure for password recovery set by the Company.

5. Claims and Dispute Resolution

5.1. The Parties have agreed that they will make every effort to settle all disputes between the Company and the Client related to transactions, payouts and other actions hereunder by means of negotiations.

5.2. If a dispute arises, the Client may submit a claim/complaint to the Company and send a statement or notice to the Company. All claims/complaints/statements/notices related to transactions performed by the Client must be submitted in accordance with the following requirements:

5.2.1. claims/complaints/statements/notices must be submitted in writing;

5.2.2. claims/complaints/statements/notices must contain the following information: Surname, first name, middle name (if any), Client's e-mail, Client's Account Number, date and time of the dispute, brief description of the dispute, Client's demands; claimed amount and justified calculation thereof (if the claim can be valued in money); circumstances that are the grounds for the claim and evidence supporting those circumstances, including reference to the clause of this Agreement (annexes hereto) that were breached in the Client's opinion; a list of documents and other evidence attached to the claim (complaint) authenticated by the Client; other information necessary to settle the dispute;

5.2.3. claims/complaints/statements/notices must be sent by the Client within five (5) business days after the event that was the basis for submission of the relevant claim (complaint). The Client agrees that a delay in submission of the claim (complaint) is grounds for refusal to consider it;

5.2.4. claims/complaints/statements/notices may be sent by e-mail to claim@olymptrade.com, by registered or certified mail, or by other means of communication that provide a record that they were sent (including fax) or may be hand delivered with acknowledgment of receipt signed by the recipient. Claims/complaints/statements/notices made and sent in another form will not be considered.

5.3. Claims/complaints/statements/notices must not contain:

- a) an emotional evaluation of the dispute;
- b) offensive statements addressed to the Company;
- c) profanity.

5.4. To respond to a claim/complaint/statement/notice, the Company may request additional documents and information from the Client. A claim/complaint/statement/notice will be reviewed on the basis of data provided by the Client and log entries from the Company server. Log entries from the Company Server always prevail over other evidence and proof. The Company assumes no liability for incomplete trades and will not compensate any financial damages or moral harm suffered by the Client with respect to what the Client considers to be lost profit. When considering disputes, the Company will not take into account the Client's references to information from other companies and websites.

5.5. The Company may reject a claim/complaint/statement/notice if the terms of this section are violated.

5.6. The Company must consider a claim/complaint/application/appeal within no more than 10 working days after the submission date.

5.7. If the Client's claim/complaint/statement/notice has not been settled by the Company by the above dispute settlement procedure, the Client shall may submit a claim to the Financial Commission (www.financialcommission.org).

5.8. In addition to provision set forth in clauses 5.2.-5.7. of the dispute resolution procedure, the Client may file a claim to a court, provided that he/she has first submitted the claim to the Company in accordance with this dispute resolution procedure. The claim procedure for dispute resolution will be deemed followed if: a) the form and content of the claim meet the requirements of clauses 5.2.1., 5.2.2., and 5.2.3.; b) the claim is sent to the Company's registration address; c) the Client has a confirmation of claim receipt by the Company; d) the deadline for responding to the claim has expired. Claim response time – sixty (60) calendar days after it is received by the Company.

5.9. In case of any disputes, the Company reserves the right to fully or partially block transactions in the Client's Account until the dispute is settled or until the Parties come to an interim agreement.

6. Governing Law

6.1. This agreement is made in the country of Saint Vincent and the Grenadines (hereinafter the country of Company registration) and is regulated by the law of the country of Company registration. Services under this Agreement are provided in the country of Company registration.

6.2. The Client expressly:

- a) agrees that the courts of the country of the Company's registration have exclusive jurisdiction to conduct any legal proceedings with respect to this Agreement;
- b) submits to the jurisdiction of the courts of the country of the Company's registration;
- c) waives any appeals with respect to proceedings in any of such courts;
- d) agrees to make no claims regarding forum non conveniens and not to declare that the forum state has no legal jurisdiction over the Client.

7. Force Majeure

7.1. If the Company has sufficient grounds, it may claim force majeure events. Force majeure events include (without limitation): (a) any action, event or occurrence (including, but not limited to, any strike, riots or civil strife, terrorist acts, wars, natural disasters, accidents, fires, floods, storms, power outages, interruptions in the operation of communication equipment, software or electronic equipment, incorrect operation of any kind of equipment or software, the instability in the quote stream, interruptions in the operation of or the instability of liquidity providers, etc.), which, in the Company's reasonable opinion, led to the destabilization of the market or the markets for one or more assets (instruments); b) the suspension of work, the liquidation or closure of any market or the absence of any event on which the Company bases quotes, or the imposition of restrictions or special or non-standard terms of trade in any market, or in respect of any such event.

7.2. If the Company has established that a force majeure event occurred, the Company has the right (without prejudice to the Company's other rights) to take any of the following steps without prior written notification and at any time: a) cancel any or all trades the result of which is directly or indirectly caused by force majeure; (b) suspend or amend the application of one or all provisions of the Agreement as long as the force majeure event makes it impossible for the Company to comply with these provisions; c) take or, on the contrary, not take any action in respect of the Company, the Client or other clients, if the Company reasonably deems it appropriate under the circumstances.

7.3 The Company assumes no liability for breach (improper discharge) of obligations if force majeure events interfered with that discharge.

8. Liability of the Parties

8.1. The liability of the Parties to this Agreement is determined by the terms of the Agreement and its annexes.

8.2. The Company assumes liability only for real damages caused to the Client as a result of the Company's deliberate breach of its obligations hereunder. The Company is as responsible for the actions of its employees, departments, and payment agents as it is for its own actions.

8.3. The Client assumes liability to the Company for losses incurred by the Company for which the Client is responsible, including:

- a) for damage caused as a result of the Client's failure to provide (or late provision) of any documents that must be provided to the Company under this Agreement and its annexes and for damage caused to Company because of any misstatement of information contained in documents provided by the Client;
- b) for damage caused to the Company because of abuse of services provided by the Company to the Client, including damage (losses) caused to the Company by the use of robotic and automated transaction algorithms and/or special software tools and other tools, devices, methods and techniques that facilitate or contribute to the violation of the principle of integrity, honesty and fairness in the execution of transactions;
- c) for damage caused by the Client as a result of the actions coordinated with other clients of the Company and/or affiliates of the Client aimed at causing the Company losses and for other damage caused to the Company by the Client from the use of other unfair and dishonest methods and techniques for making trades (transactions) with the Company, including using bonuses. In any situation "Client affiliates" means persons in a kinship relationship of any degree; marital, partnership, or other relationships; residing at the same address as the person; persons using the same devices; persons engaged as a Company Client by the same partner or Client of the Company; and persons engaged in any joint activity with or without the formation of a legal entity. The Company reserves the right to expand the list of situations and attributes in which the Client and third parties may be recognized as affiliated;
- d) if there is sufficient evidence to suggest that the Client unlawfully attempted to use the software provided by the Company and the funds transferred to the Company's account;
- e) for damage caused to the Company as a result of extracting income from the use of the technical features of the quote stream update on the trading terminal and of extracting income from the use of software errors and vulnerabilities in the trading terminal;
- f) for damage caused to the Company by the Client's use of insider, confidential, or other information that provided the Client with any kind of advantages in concluding trades with the Company. The Company has the right to debit these losses from the Client's account and/or the accounts of other persons (if it is established that these accounts belong to the Client (or the Client's accomplices) using the Company's technical and other equipment and tools). The Company also has the right to block the further execution of transactions on the trading terminal and the dashboard for Clients in respect to whom the Company has sufficient grounds and suspicions to classify their actions (including joint actions with other Client's) as aimed at causing damage to the Company and to debit the funds from the Client's account in favor of the Company.

8.4. If the Client breaches this Agreement, the Company may, at its option:

8.4.1. Review the amount of the Company's financial obligations to the Client and make changes to the data (balance) of the Client's Account.

8.4.2. Suspend services to the Client, block access to the trading terminal. Should the Company block the Client's access to the trading terminal, the Client must take all necessary and reasonable steps to remedy the reasons why access to the trading terminal was blocked. If the Client does not take any measures or actions to address the reasons why access was blocked within 30 (thirty) days, the Company may withdraw all funds from the trading account. The Company must redeposit all funds that were withdrawn into the Client's trading account if the Client satisfies all the requirements needed to lift the block on the trading account.

8.5. If the Client breaches any terms of the Agreement and its integral parts listed in clause 1.2, including refusal to undergo the necessary checks and refusal to provide the necessary information, the Company has the right to terminate the Agreement; to void any Client transaction; to close one, several, or all Client trades at any time, at its own discretion; and to stop rendering services to the Client and return funds to the Client or not at its discretion. Any violation of the terms listed in this section, deprives the Customer the right to demand payment or refund from the Company.

8.5.1. If the Company terminates the Agreement with the Client for breach, the Client has no right to open a new account, including by entering third party data during the registration. If the Company detects the Client's breach as set forth in this clause, the consequences stipulated in the section 8.5. of the Agreement will apply.

8.6. The Company assumes no liability to the Client for any damages, losses, lost profit, lost opportunities (due to possible market fluctuations), expenses or damages incurred by the Client as a result of the execution of trades pursuant to the terms hereof.

8.7. The Company assumes no liability in case of a discrepancy between the information represented on the Client's trading terminal and the information on the Company Server when the financial result of the Client's trades is determined. To eliminate such discrepancy, the Company will adjust the data on the trading terminal in accordance with the information available on the Company Server.

8.8. The Company assumes no liability for the Client's damages if those damages resulted from hacker attacks, accidents (failures) of computer networks, communication networks, power lines or telecommunication systems, etc., directly used to agree on the essential conditions of the Client's transactions or ensure other Company operating procedures that occurred through no fault of the Company.

8.9. The Company assumes no liability for technical failures and/or interruptions in trading terminal operation that occurred as a result of hacker attacks, accidents (failures) of computer networks, communication networks, power lines or telecommunication systems, etc., or for the Client's losses resulting from such failure and/or interruption.

8.10. The Company assumes no liability for the results of trades that the Client decided to make on the basis of analytical materials provided by the Company and/or third parties. The Client has been informed that transactions made hereunder bear the risk of not receiving the expected income and the risk of loss of some or all of the money deposited by him/her in the Client's Account. The Client acknowledges that unless there is fraud, deliberate breach of obligations or gross negligence on the part of the Company, the Company will not be liable for any losses, expenses, costs and damages of the Client resulting from inaccuracy of information provided to the Client, including, but not limited to, information about the Client's trading transactions. The Company reserves the right to cancel or close any Client trade under the conditions set forth in this Agreement; nevertheless, all transactions made by the Client as a result of this inaccurate information or an error remain in force and must be fulfilled both by the Client and the Company.

8.11. The Company assumes no liability for any losses the Client may suffer in case of theft, loss or disclosure of his/her password to the trading terminal to third parties. The client assumes full responsibility for protecting he password and safeguarding it against unauthorized third party access.

8.12. The Company assumes no liability for breach (improper discharge) of the obligations hereunder if it was caused by force majeure events.

8.13. The Company assumes no liability for any indirect, special, arbitrary, or punitive damages suffered by the Client, including, but not limited to, lost profit, loss of expected savings or loss of income, even if the Client was informed by the Company about the possibility of such damages. Emotional distress will not be indemnified.

8.14. The company reserves the right at any time to consider the Clients breaches, regardless how old, and, if breaches are discovered, to take measures in accordance with this Agreement.

9. Term and Termination of the Agreement

9.1. This Agreement comes into force upon its conclusion (client registration on the website or on the Company's trading terminal) and will be valid in perpetuity.

9.2. Either Party may terminate this Agreement unilaterally:

9.2.1. The Agreement is considered terminated on the initiative of the Company as of the date specified in the notice sent by the Company to the Client;

9.2.2. The Agreement is considered terminated at the initiative of the Client five (5) business days after the Company receives of the Client's written notice containing the statement of termination of the Agreement, provided the Client has no unfulfilled obligations hereunder. The Client must send the Termination Notification to the Company's address provided in clause 1.1. of this Agreement, or to the email address help@olymptrade.com.

9.3. This Agreement is considered terminated with respect to the Parties when the mutual obligations of the Client and of the Company with respect to previously made transactions are fulfilled and all debts of each Party are repaid.

10. Final Provisions

10.1. Amendments and supplements to this Agreement and to its annexes hereto will be made by the Company unilaterally. All amendments and supplements made by the Company and not related to the circumstances specified herein come into force on the date specified by the Company.

10.2. Amendments and supplements made by the Company to this Agreement and to its annexes because of amendments to legislation and regulations governing the subject hereof and to rules and contracts of trading systems used by the Company to discharge its obligations hereunder come into force simultaneously with amendments in the aforementioned documents.

10.3. When the amendments and supplements made by the Company come into force, they will apply equally to all Clients, including those who concluded the Agreement before their effective date.

10.4. To ensure that a Client who entered into the Agreement is aware of amendments and supplements before they come into force, the Client must visit the Company's Website or the trading platform him/herself or through authorized persons at least once a week to find information about any amendments and/or supplements.

10.5. The Client (individual) providing his/her personal data to the Company in any form and in any way (when performing any actions on the Company's website, through the Company's counterparties, etc.) thereby gives the Company and its partners his/her consent for automated and non-automated processing of his/her personal data for the purpose of the fulfillment of this Agreement, the implementation of advertising campaigns, provision to him/her of advertising, informational, and marketing materials, information about campaigns and events held by the Company, and for other purposes determined by the Company, namely: to collect, record, systematize, accumulate, store, adjust (update, amend), extract, transfer (disseminate, grant access), depersonalize, block, delete, destroy and transfer across borders personal data. Consent is given for a period of 75 years (or until expiry of the retention periods for the relevant information or documents containing that information determined in accordance with the current legislation of the Company's location). Consent may be withdrawn in accordance with legislation by sending a statement to the Company's location. Contact information is posted on the Company's Website. The Company guarantees the confidentiality of the personal data provided by the Client, excluding the circumstances set by the applicable law and force majeure.

10.6. The Client may use information that was communicated to the Client either orally or in writing that is posted by the Company or by third parties, access to which was granted to him/her as part of the services hereunder only for transactions under this Agreement. The Client may not disseminate, alter, or supplement the aforementioned information, or store it in separate archives. In any event, the scope of powers granted to the Client with respect to information posted by third parties cannot exceed the scope of powers obtained by the Company from the third party. The Company does not guarantee that information posted by third parties is reliable, accurate, or relevant and will be provided on an ongoing basis without interruptions. Nor is the Company liable for the results of transactions (losses, lost profit, lost income, injury to goodwill, etc.) that the Client decided to perform on the basis of information that was communicated to the Client either orally or in writing by the Company or by third parties./p>

10.7. The Company may fully or partially transfer the rights and obligations under this Agreement and the annexes hereto to a third party if such person undertakes to fulfill the terms hereof. This transfer of rights and obligations will come into force 10 business days after the day when the Client is deemed to have received the relevant notice pursuant to the provisions of this Agreement.

10.8. The Client is not entitled to assign his/her own rights, impose his/her own obligations or transfer rights or obligations hereunder in any other way without prior written consent of the Company. If this condition is breached, any such assignment, imposition or transfer will be deemed null and void.

10.9. The Company, its partners or any other affiliates may have a material benefit, legal relation or arrangement with respect to a transaction on the trading platform or in the Dashboard or a material benefit, legal relation or arrangement that is in conflict with the Client's interests. For example, the Company may:

a) act as a counterparty with respect to any asset;

b) suggest another partner of the Company as a counterparty for a trading operation;

c) give recommendations and render services to its partners or other clients of the Company with respect to assets they are interested in, despite the fact that this is in conflict with the Client's interests.

10.10. The Client agrees and authorizes the Company to act with respect to the Client and for the Client as the Company finds appropriate, despite a potential conflict of interests or the existence of some material interest with respect to any transaction on the trading terminal or in the Dashboard without prior notification of the Client. The existence of a conflict of interest or material benefit with respect to any transaction on the trading terminal or in the Dashboard must not affect the provision of services to the Client by Company employees. From time to time the Company may act on behalf of the Client with parties with whom the Company or any of its related parties have an agreement to receive goods or services. The Company guarantees that these agreements are made as far as possible for the benefit of the Client, for example, these agreements make it possible to access information and other services that would otherwise be inaccessible

10.11. If a court of proper jurisdiction declares any provision of the Agreement (or any part of any provision) void, that provision will be treated as a separate part of the Agreement and this will not affect the legal force of the rest of the Agreement./
